A well-functioning immune system is key to your overall health and well-being. Did you know that everything you do—from your level of exercise and what you eat to how much sleep you get—impacts your immune system?†

When it comes to your diet, there are essential nutrients that your body needs that also help support a healthy immune system.

Don't forget about Zinc! While it's not a vitamin, this essential mineral provides antioxidant and immune health support.†

Remember, your immune system supports you all year round, so provide it daily support in return by prioritizing these vitamins and minerals. Nature Made® immune supplements are formulated to provide a source of these nutrients.†

Talk to your primary healthcare provider about your dietary needs before adding a dietary supplement to your daily routine.

Vitamin C, found in citrus fruits, often takes the spotlight. It functions as an antioxidant to support the immune system by neutralizing free radicals in the body.†

Vitamin D helps to regulate your body's immune response. It's called the "Sunshine Vitamin" because we usually obtain it through sun exposure on our skin.†
